HOLDS UP CASHIER
Robber Enters Restaurant in Alexandria.

Alexandria, Va., Dec. 26.—Walking up to the Greek cashier in the Martha Washington Cafe, King and Washington streets, tonight about 8 o'clock, a well-dressed young man shoved a revolver under his nose and commanded him to throw up his hands. While the cashier's hands were in the air the robber rifled the cash register, and made off with about $15 in cash. As soon as he was out of sight, the cashier ran to the front door and fired several shots into the air.

Chief Goude and a policeman, who were a few blocks away ran to his assistance, and after getting a meager description from the frightened man, went out an alarm.

The robber was well dressed and wore a light tan rain coat and a cap. He came into the cafe and ordered a meal, and finished went to the rear of the place supposedly to pay his bill. Instead he quickly stepped behind the counter and commanded the cashier to "throw up his hands."

The police are of the opinion that the robber started for Washington and notified the Capital police to be on the look-out for him.

REPORT MUCH YULETIDE CHEER
Many Dined, Not Wisely, but Too Well, Records Show.

This Christmas has been celebrated by more drinkings, the police think, than Yuletide seasons for years back. Yesterday was a busy time at the Police Court, two hundred and forty-one informations were filed. None of the charges was serious. Most of them were disorderly conduct and simple assaults.

One hundred and fifty persons forfeited collateral rather than face his honor's stern continuance. In the District branch of the court, sixty-six defendants. Ninety-nine prisoners were arraigned before the United States branch. The record sentence was given Samuel Thomas, colored, for striking an aged colored man on the head with a stone. Thomas was sent to prison for a period of eleven months and twenty-nine days.

BIGELOW HONORED BY THE CHEMISTS
Agricultural Expert Chosen by His Fellows.

ONE OF FOUR COUNCILORS

Governing Body of the American Chemical Society, Largest of Its Kind in the World, Elects Officers—Programme of Sessions for Remainder of Week.

Despite the fact that he was reprimanded in the Wiley-McCabe controversy, W. D. Bigelow, of the Department of Agriculture, was chosen one of the four councilors-at-large of the American Chemical Society, the largest of its kind in the world, with its 5,700 members, which opened its forty-fifth meeting at the Raleigh yesterday afternoon.

The council, which is the governing body of the society, listened to a number of important announcements made by the president, Dr. Alexander Smith, professor of chemistry in Columbia University, and Prof. Charles L. Parsons, secretary of the society, and chief mineral chemist of the Federal Bureau of Mines.

President Is Elected.

The names of the four members leading in the number of votes for the presidency were presented and the council selected Arthur D. Little, of Boston, chemical expert and engineer, for the honor. Besides Mr. Bigelow, three councilors to serve for three years are announced as follows: S. W. Parr, Urbana, Ill., professor of industrial chemistry in the University of Illinois; William H. Walker, of Boston, professor of industrial chemistry in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and W. L. Miller, Toronto, Canada, professor of physical chemistry in the University of Toronto.

Secretary Parsons told of the rapid growth of the society in the last few years. In 1901, the receipts were $12,000, and in 1911, $50,000. In 1911, the membership was 5,700, and in 1912, 5,700. The expenses of the society's journal, 1901 was $12,000, and in 1912, the three journals cost $32,000.

The general meetings of the society will be held in McKim Building, Training School. The programme to-day includes the meetings of the biological, fertilizer, pharmaceutical, and organic chemistry divisions, and a joint meeting of the section of chemical education and the physical and inorganic chemistry division. The speakers will be Dr. A. A. Noyes, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Prof. W. D. Bigelow, of the University of Illinois. Prof. H. C. Jones, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.; Dr. J. H. Muller, professor of chemistry, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis. In the afternoon the general meeting of the society and of Section C, American Association for the Advancement of Science, will be held.

The principal address will be delivered by Prof. George B. Frankforter, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn., on the subject, "The relation of the chemical relations to the terpenes." Other addresses will be delivered by Prof. H. P. Talbot, of Newton, Mass., and A. L. Vogel, of Chicago, Ill.

In the evening a complimentary smoker will be given the members of the society at Rauscher's.

Laboratories to Open.

To-morrow afternoon the various chemical laboratories of the government will be open for inspection by the members, and chemists connected with the bureau will be on hand to guide the visitors. Visits are to be made to the laboratories of the Bureau of Chemistry, Plant Industry, Animal Industry, and Soil of the Department of Agriculture, and to the laboratories of the Bureau of Mines, Bureau of Standards, Geological Laboratory, and to the Hygienic Laboratory of the Marine Hospital Service. Friday evening there will be a subscription dinner at Rauscher's.

Several hundred members of the society arrived in the city last night, many being accompanied by their wives. The presence of the ladies promises to be a feature of the meeting, the local committee having made elaborate arrangements for their reception. Specially conducted trips will be started from the Raleigh Hotel, one this morning at 9:30 and one at 1:30 in the afternoon. An afternoon tea and reception will be given by Mrs. W. D. Bigelow at her home, 1235 Lafayette street, and in the evening there will be a theater party at the New National. To-morrow there will be a trip to Mount Vernon and to the Corcoran Gallery of Art. In the afternoon a tea will be given by the Cornell Women of Washington at the home of Mrs. F. A. Holton, 215 S. Street. TELLTALE FRAGMENTS.

Bits of Hained Bank Notes Convict a Counterfeiter.

A few torn fragments of $5 and $10 notes found by a Boston man in a vacant room in a boarding-house in that city and sent to the redemption division of the Treasury Department, and which were forwarded to the Secret Service, yesterday led to the conviction of James Sweeney, of Boston. Sweeney is charged with counterfeiting. On December 9 operatives of the Secret Service in Boston arrested Sweeney for raising the denominations of $1 notes by pasting figures and ciphers from other notes upon them. Sweeney would fear the corner off a note, careful not to impair the face value, clip whatever figure he desired and paste it on a $1 note. The fragments received here were sent to the office of the Secret Service, where operatives discovered that the figures pasted on Sweeney's notes fitted into the fragments yesterday. When confronted with the fragments and the clipped figures yesterday Sweeney pleaded guilty.

CROSSING COPS HOPEFUL

Regular Police Force Indorses Proposed Bill.

The crossing policemen are daily growing more antagonistic with respect to the enactment of the bill now before Congress providing that they be placed on the same footing as members of the Metropolitan police force with respect to salary, promotion, sick leave, and annual leave. At its recent meeting the Metropolitan Police Association heartily indorses the measure. A formal notice of this action was given by Secretary Thompson to the Crossing Policemen's Association.

Yesterday James L. Pathe, president of the latter organization, sent a letter to the other association, thanking its members for their indorsement of the bill. The bill has been indorsed by nearly all of the citizens' associations of the District and by many commercial organizations.

SAVANTS HERE TO DISCUSS SCIENCE

tion to make recommendations, but to gather from an interchange of ideas what has been going on "scientifically" in all parts of America during the last year. There are a few subjects, however, upon which the members of the general committee will take a decided stand.

For Health Department.

First among these, it is said, is the proposition of establishing in the executive of the government a department of health, under the supervision of a secretary of health. This department, it has been argued, has come to be a vital necessity. It will fill the gap now left open by the limitations of the bacteriologists of the Department of Agriculture and the health officials of State and municipality.

In other words, it will take up the question of better health apart from matters of food and adulteration and the like. This department, its advocates argue, will find its work in sending to the public such scientific discoveries as are of value in the fight against disease. It will advise, and in cases of dire disaster through contagion, will assume control of the situation.

Engineers Will Meet.

Among the first of the meetings to-day will be that of the branch of mechanical science and engineering at the Georgetown Law School, where three addresses directly bearing on mine disasters, their causes, and their cure, will be read by Director A. C. Holmes, of the Bureau of Mines; Prof. R. A. Ferri, and O. P. Hood.

Dr. Holmes' address on "The work of the Bureau of Mines with special relation to safety in mines, quarrying, and metallurgical operations," will have especial interest because of his recent return from a serious disaster in Tennessee.

At the same hour other branches and affiliated societies will meet.
